1. The Dialectic of the Sex-Motif in Literature

Sex is a function of culture; in literature today it plays only a small though

aggressively

righteous part.

Nature, long held in
bondage, periodically
breaks out in revolt,
but its victory is never complete. In every society, primitive as well as modern, the
sexual instinct is for good or evil always subject to some measure of regulation

and restraint. In literature, where the battle between love and sex, spirit and flesh, is fought out in terms of symbolic action, the writers support their cause, for or against sexual freedom, with varying degrees of evangelical ardor and outspokenness. On this issue there is no

Unanimity for the simple reason that American culture is not unified in its beliefs concerning the nature of man. The central conflict
between instinctual
needs and the claims
of the ideal, between physical desire and
the inner check,
between Dionysus
and Christ, goes on all the time. Sublimation is the cultural process whereby sexual energy is deflected from its biological source and diverted into spiritually "higher" and socially more useful channels. But sublimation is for most men hard to achieve. As civilization grows more complex, the individual is exposed to a series of increasingly severe moral strains. Pitted against Nature while subject to its laws, he must hence forth be governed in his behavior by inner as well as outer controls.

Denzin offers a uniquely phenomenological approach to explain the development of an alcoholic's sense of self that is fragmented, defensive and subjective. He discusses behavioural and psychoanalytic
